Support for single homeless people in England
Annual Review 2015
Homelessness can happen to anyone at any time. In fact, with one in ten people in England saying they have personally experienced homelessness, the need for effective support is clear. When it happens, the causes, as well as the help people subsequently need, and for which they are eligible, vary widely.

The assistance someone can get depends on their circumstances, and some people find it difficult to access the help they need. This particularly applies to people who become single homeless – people without dependants who are not eligible for statutory support under homelessness legislation.

Many of these people rely on services and projects in the homelessness sector to provide them with accommodation and help them address the issues that led to, or maintain, their homelessness. However, the nature, extent and demand for these services are changing rapidly, as is the environment in which they operate. Our research shows that nearly half (49%) of people using accommodation projects are aged 16 to 24, three in ten are women and 38% have multiple or complex needs.

This executive summary sets out the main findings of our report, The state of homelessness support for single people in England 2015. It offers essential evidence for services, commissioners, policy-makers and others planning for the needs of people who become homeless in England. It shows how demand and funding fluctuates, and how services respond to those changes, as well as to shifting expectations about their role.
Resources for homelessness services and their outcomes

41% of accommodation projects have experienced decreased funding (38% in 2013). Just 8% have seen their funding increase.

More day centres experienced a drop in funding – 36% compared to 26% in 2013.

But services are supporting people towards better outcomes: 34% of clients are engaged in education or training (23% in 2013) and 14% in paid employment (10% in 2013).

Accessing move on accommodation

25% of people in accommodation projects were ready to move on but had not yet moved. Of this group, 27% had been waiting for 6 months or longer.

48% of projects reported the main barrier as a lack of suitable accommodation to move to.

14% of projects cite lack of affordable housing as the main barrier to clients moving on.

What our survey respondents said...

Projects report problems with landlords unwilling to accept Housing Benefit tenants.
Supporting those with the most complex needs

- 38% of people in accommodation projects need additional support with at least one other issue: 32% have mental health problems; 32% have drug problems; 23% have alcohol problems.

- 76% of accommodation projects had refused access due to the client needs being too high: 55% because client’s needs were too complex.

- 24% of projects said they do not have sufficient staff resources to deal with clients who have complex needs.

Impact of welfare reform

- 90% of accommodation services reported that their clients had been affected by sanctions, up from 68% in 2013.

- 61% of services reported that the proportion of clients being sanctioned has increased since 2013.

- 60% of day centres said clients are having problems understanding the benefits system: 63% reported clients having claims suspended without a clear reason why.
Support goes further than just providing a roof

83% of services offer advice to the people they support.

99% of services offer personalised support, most commonly in the form of life skills like budgeting, cooking and supporting wellbeing.

42% of projects use shared accommodation schemes.

41% use rent deposit/bond schemes.
